

NEW KONI SPORT FOR 2016+ MAZDA MX-5 (ND) OFFERS EVEN MORE ADJUSTABILITY

KONI Shock Absorbers proudly introduces new KONI Sport adjustable shock absorbers for 2016-2019 Mazda MX-5 (ND chassis) offering multiple spring perch and ride height settings to meet the many uses and needs for MX-5 owners and drivers worldwide. Whether your MX-5 is a daily driver at stock or lowered ride height, is used in competition with specific ride height requirements, or you want to customize your suspension for fixed perch or coil-over usage, the new KONI Sport adjustable shocks are ready with high performance technology and adjustability.

In addition to KONI's proven externally (on the car) rebound valving adjustment system, the new circlip height adjustable KONI Sport allows owners to set their car at several ride heights depending upon their needs. They include factory ride height on stock springs, factory shock spring perch locations, lowering the car between 15 mm and 30 mm using the factory springs, changing chassis rake (one end lower than the other), and also installing threaded coil-over sleeves for custom spring and suspension setups. KONI Sport shocks are compatible with most aftermarket and tuner lowering springs as well. Instruction sheets are included with each shock to explain the various options.

Since 2016, KONI has offered rebound damping adjustable Sport shocks with non-adjustable spring perches for street, track day, and autocross duty that have not only improved MX-5 (ND) handling and ride quality on street cars worldwide but also have won many competition events including national championships. The new KONI Sports offer the same proven performance and now the additional ride height options.
